

Whence the UN Failed(n't)

Calvin Sprouse

Geography 101 World Regional Geography

2024 February 20

It has been argued in class that the creation of the European Union is a post-“Reformation,” “Enlightenment” project. What does this mean and why does this project seem to be faltering leading to a dangerous confusion over what a “nation,” and then a “nation-state,” should consist of as the basis for geopolitical “sovereignty?”

The reformation introduced the novel concept of rational thought to the political and religious landscape.